The Standard & Poor's 500 index says it all. Today has all the signs of a significant low.

- today was a reversal day: new low, close greater than the open, and close greater than the previous close
- today's low was right at the 62% retracement level of the rally from mid February to mid March
- today's low made an almost perfect matching move with the first down leg (from A to B = 42 points) equal to the second down leg (C to D = 42 points)
